Into All the World

Lesson for September 30, 1951

SO YOU don't believe in missions? That's a position not easy to defend, if you make any show at all of being a Christian. Can you be a business man and not believe in customers? Can you be your business? successful and not want to expand "Missions" is a name given to the growing edge of Christianity, a name for its expanding program. It is a name that stands for everything we believe in as Christians. It stands for the proposition that Christ is the answer to all the world's needs, not yours and mine alone. Christ died for the world, not for the western hemisphere or the democracies alone.

Dr. Foreman

Greatest Missionary Religion

THERE ARE religions you cannot "crash," no matter what you do, unless you are born in them. For example, either you were born the child of a Parsee, or you can't ever be a Parsee.

Again, there are religions which you can join if you insist, but nobody is going to try to talk you into it. Take it or leave it. Hinduism is one such religion.

But there are three missionary religions, religions that set out to claim all the world for their territory; besides Christianity these are Buddhism and Mohammedanism.

Buddhism is 600 years older than Christianity, Mohammedanism some 600 years younger; but neither has spread into so many corners of the world as our religion has; neither has won anything like Christianity's number of converts.

Pessimists Are Always with Us

IF THE first Christians had not believed in missions, where would we be? Where were your ancestors when Christ was living on earth? If you are descended from any of the nations of Europe north of the Alps mountains, or from Africa, then at the time of Christ your ancestors were a barbarous lot. Using paint about as much as clothing, their favorite sports getting drunk and savage fighting, they had contributed nothing whatever to civilization.

Or, if you are descended from the peoples of western Asia or around the Mediterranean, then at the time of Christ they were civilized, but time was running out. The Roman Empire, which looked as if it might endure forever, was doomed, even though its final death-knell was still 300 years away. But decay had set in.

If you had been a church member in Antioch when Paul was the foreign missionary pastor sent out by that congregation, you could have thought of all sorts of good excuses for not supporting him or his work.

"Why bother with those heathen?" you might have said. "As for the nations around the Mediterranean, they are on the way out. Even if they take to Christianity, it will be only a shot in the arm. It won't save them from the crash.

As for those savages up north and out west (you would mean, in the countries now known as France and Spain), what have they ever amounted to? They haven't asked for missionaries; they will probably kill them if we send them. Sending missionaries or spending church money on those people is just throwing it down a rat-hole."

Missionaries Once Came To Your Home Town

LOOK over the churches in your home state, wherever it is. You will find, on investigation, that most of them, however large and prosperous they are now, were once "home mission" churches, set on their feet through the generosity of older Christian communities.

Without missions the Christian church would never have lived; if it ceases to believe in missions it can still die.

The secret? There is nothing mysterious about it. Read what Paul said and see how simple it all is, at heart. The preaching of the good news of God; the enthusiasm and heroism and determination of the missionary; the inspired ambition to do something for God that was never done before; the two-way contributions, of older churches to new and new ones to old; and the circle of prayer uniting Christians everywhere, old and new. That is what made missions work then; it is what keeps missions going on now.

WILLIAM AND MARY COLLEGE

The college is the second oldest in America and was the first to establish an honor system, an elective system of studies, schools of law, and modern languages. It was the second to establish a school of medicine. Three Presidents were educated here. They were Jefferson, Monroe, and Tyler. The first course in political economy in America was established here and in 1803 the first school of history. The Wren Building (above), is the oldest academic building in America.

s in Piedmont Virginia and the Blue Ridge should have seeded by October 1.How- eastern Virginia they should by October 15.

ly, the best time to plant ley is two weeks before wheat ing. For Piedmont and the Blue Ridge, that means is later than October 10. rn Virginia, barley planting ome October 10 to November ate dates for wheat differ- Dates west of the Blue Ridge are October 1 to 25 — Piedmont, October 1 to November 1 — and eastern Virginia, October 25 to November 15.

The fertilizer you use will depend on the rotation and the way the preceding crop was fertilized. In general, use 400 to 600 pounds per acre of 4-16-8, or a 2-12-12 without borax. Be sure to use certified seed of the officially recommended varieties for your area.

Rat Proof Corn Cribs

Corn supplies in the crib are now as low as they are likely to be any season of the year — and it's a good time to repair rat holes and rat-proof the crib, says J. M. Amos, associate entomologist -plant pathologist at V. P. I.

Sheet metal may be used over the floor and should extend up the sides. Another effective method is to use metal on the floor of a wooden building and enclose the entire area above with 1-4 inch hardware cloth. Be sure no place large enough for rats or mice to enter is left unsealed.

A little ecort made now to prevent rats from entering the crib will save much time and damage after the corn is cribbed, Amos says.

Other points worth considering, Amos says, are: flashing the doors with sheet metal; keeping doors closed; keeping cribs free of trash beneath; and not leaning objects against a crib which seems to be rat free. The rats may crawl up and go over the rat-proofing material.

"THE STORE OF VALUES"

"IN THE HEART OF LYNCHBURG, VA."

An automobile whirls around a blind curve at excessive speed and smashes into another vehicle, head-on.

A young woman screams . . . lethal windshield fragments rip into her throat and face. Her three-year-old blonde daughter is crushed against the weight of an abruptly silenced 100-horsepower engine. And her husband slumped at the wheel . . . drugged with shock . . . stares unseeingly.

Dead End—a tragic, horrible picture.

Most of the auto accidents which are killing us by the thousands are the result of our own light-hearted unwillingness to believe that it can happen to us! This very moment, you're probably thinking of highway horror as something that strikes at those faceless names which parade before us in mounting newspaper accounts — but not likely to happen to you. Yet the chances are that before another 24 hours have passed, one or more persons now reading these words will have killed or crippled themselves and others out on Route Dead End.

BELIEVE THIS —

Every time you pass on a blind hill or curve . . . or "step on it" on a slippery road . . . or follow too closely the car ahead of you . . .

Every time you try to beat another car to a narrow bridge . . . or take your eyes from the road . . . or take your hand from the wheel to light a cigarette . . .

Every time you break the speed law and drive faster than your reflexes will respond . . . or with your reactions slowed by alcohol . . . or fail to make every allowance for what "the other fellow" may do . . .

Every time you forget that your automobile can kill you in a split second . . .

You're flipping a coin with Death.

Sooner or later, the coin will come down the other way. It can happen to you. When it does—Dead End!

And don't forget . . . this is the month the kiddies are trooping back to school again . . . your children, your friends' children . . . PLEASE teach them, train them to be careful crossing streets. Train YOURSELF to obey the "slow" signs near schools. Obey every traffic signal. Obey the speed limit. Watch for school zones. Keep your eyes open for the school bus ahead of you. PLEASE, watch for the youngsters. Don't let YOUR car be the one that writes "Dead End" for some boy or girl.
